PENSION EQUALITY FOR WOMEN

Mothers' Union Calls on Government to ACT without delay.

Many women in the Republic of Ireland are left facing their old age in poverty because they have inferior pension rights to men. The State fails to recognise their work as unpaid carers for both the families that they have raised and for other relatives.

Mothers' Union calls on the Government

- to introduce a fair State Pension system which will address past inequality for groups of Irish women at or near pension age AND
- to avoid future pension injustice being inflicted on those now working.
